

THE LONDON FASHION WEEK EXPERIENCE FOR 8-16 YEAR OLD male and females

A guaranteed place in LONDON FASHION WEEK for everyone who completes this workshop, the pupils will design, make and wear on the runway themselves their designs that they created during the workshop

Future of Fashion is an academy established by internationally renowned haute couture designer Debbie Wingham, it was initially founded as a creative outlet for under 16's to to acquire practical skills and give them exciting character and confidence building opportunities like showcase designs in runway shows, TV/radio interviews and so on. This September we made fashion history at the London Dorchester Hotel, because FOF was the first organisation to have under 16's wear their designs at London fashion week that they had created previously on one of the many FOF workshops that included upcycling, creating from scratch including pattern making, fabric manipulation etc.

For February 2016 we are delighted to say that we are growing from strength to strength and showcasing more of the UK'S creative youngsters at London fashion week. Many start the workshops with little or no sewing knowledge at all.

All skills sets are nurtured and everyone leaves with an outfit they can be proud of. We look at upcycling, art/textile techniques, fabric manipulation, hand and sewing machine sewing work so that everyone leaves with a core of abilities that they can develop. All pupils involved in these day long workshops which take place in central London Bloomsbury Church between the hours of 10am-4pm receive:-

-All materials and embellishments to high end industry standard

-One on one tuition with celebrity haute couturier Debbie Wingham

-All participants will acquire new skills and techniques that can quite easily be replicated at home or school

-with each booking a gift box with certificate of participation in London fashion week, sewing equipment, mini mannequin and fabric samples/threads will be sent to all youngsters prior to the workshop.

-All participants are guaranteed a place in London fashion week in February 2016 the future of fashion showcase date is Friday 19th which is during February half term.

-They will receive professional runway tuition and have professional hair and natural makeup (optional) prior to the show

-Each booking will receive one place in the audience at LFW for a parent to attend and watch their child on the runway ticket value £20

-everyone involved we have the opportunity of media coverage and receive a once in a life time experience of showcasing in London fashion week.

-At LFW all pupils will receive a goody bag with above £25 worth of creative contents and certificate for completing LFW

Please see some examples of the previous future of fashion pupils and what they created and wore at London fashion week in September 2015

8 year olds (made from scratch)

10 year old (environmental upcycling of unique materials)

13 year olds (made from scratch top half, bottom upcycled)

16 year olds (made from scratch)

15 year old, Created by upcycling a shift dress, air brushing the colour and creating a felt eye and wire eye lashes.

All samples here were created on day workshops at FOF with Debbie wingham. We encourage all pupils to be individual and unique but these designs serve as a good example of what certain age groups can achieve.
